A Community Trail

It’s an inside joke around here to refer to winter as our “down time.” In truth, our waterways may be frozen during the winter months, but our work continues nonetheless. Why? Because our water trail is inseparably a community trail.

Our mission, and the work through which we deliver it, extends across four seasons as we collaborate with communities along our route. Together, we implement programs that position the Trail as a real contributor to the vibrancy of the places through which it passes.

For paddlers — many of you — our efforts result in improved resources and services for enjoying great experiences along the Trail. The enhanced tools and approaches we created this past winter include:

◆ Website Trip Planner with a growing list of services along the NFCT, plus new ease of use features;
◆ Itineraries and packages that reduce your planning time, leaving you more time on the water;
◆ Info on local paddling races and community events — as much as we are able to list.

To begin planning your NFCT experience, visit www.NorthernForestCanoeTrail.org and select “Plan A Trip” or “Calendar of Events.” Please, send us your feedback so that we can continue to improve and expand the resources available to you. Happy planning… and paddling!

Contributing to Vibrant Communities: Our Community Economic Development Program is the centerpiece of the efforts described here. With support from a number of sources, including the USDA Rural Business Enterprise Grant Program, we work directly with a variety of businesses along the Trail who are positioned to support paddlers and to benefit from an increase in paddler visitation. Our 2006 Baseline Economic Impact Study (available on our website) showed that the average paddler group surveyed spent $215 per trip in local communities along our route — not insignificant. We hope to sustain and even grow that number by directing paddlers to local businesses, and assisting our community partners in providing the services, itineraries, and packages that attract visitors.

One of the many businesses participating in our community economic development program.

Be it inns, restaurants, gear retailers, guides, … or floatplanes, you’ll find services along the NFCT on our Website Trip Planner!
Dear Members, Supporters and Friends,

As I write this, spring thaws threaten to flood local rivers. We’ve been spared so far, but I am jarringly reminded of the power and centrality of water in the life of many communities. We depend on flowing waters for so much, and likewise serve them — for better or worse — by how we manage our watersheds and live on our lands.

My thoughts turn to the power of the paddling experience, of the on-water perspective, to help us understand the interconnections of which we are a part. It occurs to me that the Northern Forest Canoe Trail is increasingly about making these natural interconnections manifest not only in the flow of waters, but also in the shape of our work.

I found this quote by Erich Jantsch in Meg Wheatley’s Leadership and the New Science, a favorite book of mine: “In life,” Jantsch notes, “the issue is not control, but dynamic connectedness.” Dynamic connectedness. What a compelling phrase! It captures what we strive to accomplish with partners and neighbors as we deliver our mission. To that end, we’ve recently trained new staff to broaden our connective reach; we’ve collaboratively expanded our economic and rural youth programs; and with key partners, we’ve engaged congressional delegations regarding shared regional agendas. As always, we’ve continued to tap the figurative watersheds of experience, passion, creativity, and vision that further our mission while contributing to a vibrant future for the Northern Forest.

These are not easy times to be a small non-profit. But these are excellent times to be a dynamic player in a region facing great challenges and opportunities. Our thanks — always — to you for your support and encouragement.

Warmly,

Kate Williams
Executive Director

Making It All Happen

Father & Daughter NFCT Friends

NFCT is lucky to have a great father-daughter team as colleagues. Bruce Hazard is the leader of a non-profit that NFCT collaborates with; and Phoebe Hazard-Backler is an NFCT economic development field consultant who works with services along Section 7 in New Hampshire. We are grateful for the spirit and expertise they bring to our collective efforts!

Bruce Hazard is Director of Mountain Counties Heritage (MCH), a non-profit community development organization based in Farmington, Maine. MCH is the steward organization for the Maine Woods Consortium, an open association of businesses, non-profits (including NFCT), and government agencies organized around three program areas — landscape resources, community revitalization, and economic restructuring.

Phoebe Hazard Backler originally hails from Maine, but her work in outdoor education with Voyageur Outward Bound, the Yosemite Institute, and the Appalachian Mountain Club has taken her to wilderness areas across the country. Phoebe holds a B.A. in History with a Certificate in the Management of Community Organizations. Her on-the-ground work with NFCT has allowed her to explore a long held interest in the blending of natural resource conservation and economic development.

In Memoriam: Sherry Belknap, 1956–2009

NFCT lost a great friend when Sherry Belknap passed away on January 8, 2009. Area residents, visitors, and trail users alike have Sherry to thank for public access to shore lands, an island, and a campsite at the Connecticut and Nulhegan rivers’ confluence, land that Sherry and his wife Darlene sold to the Vermont Agency of Natural Resources so that it could be preserved and managed for public use. Additionally, Sherry was involved in numerous projects aligned with NFCT’s mission to honor and conserve the human and natural heritage of the region. We will miss him.

Waterway Work Trips

A healthy balance of work and play, these trips are a great opportunity to steward the Trail while meeting fellow paddlers.

- July 10–12: Franklin Falls Portage, New York — We’ll control erosion through activities like tree planting and hardening the trail surface.

- July 17–19: Highgate Falls Dam Portage Trail, Vermont — We’ll complete construction of a lumber staircase and rehab a trail section impacted by erosion.

- July 31–August 2: Connecticut River, Vermont/New Hampshire — We’ll improve a campsite located on the CT River in Maidstone, VT, and then paddle the CT River performing small stewardship projects along the way, finishing in Groveton, NH. Vehicle shuttles will be arranged.

- August 7–9: Attean Pond, Maine — We’ll improve campsites on the pond and transport lumber to be used as bog bridging across the length of Attean. If you like lake paddling, this is the trip for you!

For more details see “Get Involved” at www.NorthernForestCanoeTrail.org. Trips have small fees that cover meals for the weekend.

Interns and volunteers work side-by-side to build Trail amenities.

State-by-State Stewardship News

New York

- Thanks to support from the Adirondack Watershed Alliance, we’re proud to devote two Stewardship Interns solely to our New York section! Projects will include work at Franklin Falls, and a variety of other erosion control, campsite rehabilitation, and portage trail efforts.

- A kiosk, created with support from SUNY College, will be installed in Plattsburgh. Check our website for news of a dedication event in 2009.

Vermont/Québec

- A kiosk will be installed in Enosburg Falls, near the Bridge of Flowers and Lights, and in Island Pond, near the dock and gazebo. Check our website for news of dedication events in 2009.

- A river clean-up is scheduled for May 16 along the Missisquoi River between Richford, VT and Mansonville, Quebec. Sign up on NFCT’s website.

New Hampshire

- Our Roving Stewardship Intern Crew (the three interns not in New York) will tackle a variety of small but important projects along the NFCT in New Hampshire.

Maine

- Our Roving Stewardship Intern Crew will brush out the portage trail and address erosion control issues at Spencer Stream, and then lead the Attean Pond Waterway Work Trip.

National River Cleanup

Due to increased success as a weekly event, American River’s National River Cleanup has become a year long event! To organize a cleanup on an NFCT waterway, start by visiting: www.americanrivers.org. Then let us know so that we can spread the word!
The Adventure Continues

“Dude, you would love the canoe trip! I just went and you should go.” — quote from a 2008 NFE participant

NFCT is proud to announce the second summer of Northern Forest Explorers (NFE). Thanks to funding from SmartWool and the Davis Conservation Fund, NFE will offer four week-long programs for youth grades 5th-8th from the western Maine communities of Stratton, Jackman, and Rangeley.

Participating kids will paddle NFCT segments running practically through their backyards. A range of experiences await them on the water: navigating rapids, exploring flora and fauna, camp cooking, learning along with their peers as they build new abilities. After a week of making memories, these Explorers also will go home with heightened awareness of the natural world, a connection to place, and the confidence and self-reliance that come from practicing outdoor skills.

We continue to offer this program for two reasons: in many recreational destinations, resident youth don’t have the opportunity to explore the unique places outside their classroom windows; and, kids need outdoor places — a growing body of research shows that their social, emotional, intellectual and spiritual development depends on it. (Source: Richard Louv, Last Child in the Woods, Algonquin Books, Chapel Hill, NC 2005)

In future years, we plan to extend NFE to other NFCT sections, leveraging the full length of our Trail for the benefit of local youth. Stay tuned for reports of this year’s program, and expansion plans for 2010!

Share your best images of the Trail, past or present, to be judged for inclusion in an NFCT 2010 calendar. Photos must be in digital format, high resolution, JPEG, 6MB or smaller. Upload your submissions at the “Photos/Video” section of our website.

NFCT Staff Outnumbered by Interns

NFCT is thrilled to engage seven interns this summer — two more than in 2008, and more than three times as many as in 2007! Five Stewardship Interns will devote sweat equity to the physical creation and maintenance of campsites, portage trails, and access points. A Youth Program Intern will provide meaningful waterway experiences for kids living in Trail communities. A Program Intern will spend critical office time helping to administer behind-the-scenes processes crucial to our success as a small non-profit.

We’re also excited to welcome back Noah Pollock as Field Coordinator, a role piloted in 2008 that served NFCT well. Noah’s extensive knowledge of the waterways and communities, as well as his background in trail work, will continue to be invaluable as he coordinates the projects of the Stewardship Interns and Waterway Work Trip volunteers.

NFCT thanks the Adirondack Watershed Alliance, and the Quimby Family Foundation for supporting these endeavors by interns — endeavors that are at the heart of delivering NFCT’s mission while supporting the development of budding young professionals.

Check Out These Community Events

A variety of events are offered throughout the paddling season on the NFCT and connected waterways. Below we’ve listed whatever info was available at press time — check our website for updates. See page 8 for a complete event list.

June 23–28: 2009 Winooski River Sojourn: A Paddle Through History, Marshfield to Lake Champlain, Vermont — The Winooski River Sojourn is a multi-day paddling trip on the Winooski River, during which participants will learn about this great Vermont resource. The 2009 Sojourn will begin in Marshfield on Tuesday, June 23 and reach Lake Champlain (part of the NFCT) on Sunday, June 28. To register, or for more information, see www.winooskiriver.org.

June 27: GREAT Annual PaddleFest, Stratford Hollow and Guildhall, Vermont — This annual race and leisurely float of non-motorized watercraft down the Connecticut River starts in Stratford Hollow at the Janice Peaslee Bridge and travels 14 miles to finish in Guildhall, Vermont. The event concludes with a festival on the Guildhall Common that includes food, vendors and musicians. Advance registration; forms can be picked up locally or requested via email from greatpaddlefest@myfairpoint.net.

July 1–5: 2009 Whitewater Open Canoe Downriver Race (WWOCD), Lower Dead River, West Forks, Maine — Competitive whitewater canoeists will participate in this national race. The downriver race course will be from Spencer Rips to the access road below Lower Poplar Hill Falls. For more information, see www.wwocd.org. This is just past Section 9 of the NFCT.

August 8: River Day, Northern Forest Heritage Park, Berlin, New Hampshire — River Day is a day of celebrating the Androscoggin River with activities such as the New Hampshire screening of our Northern Forest Paddlers Film Fest; a canoe and kayak race; a “parade of boats or anything that floats” event; Northern Forest Heritage Park boat tours; seminars, workshops, crafts and games for youth, and food for all. For more information see www.northernforestheritage.org. This is just downstream of our Androscoggin segment on Section 7.

Birch Bark Canoe Exploration, July 14

2009 marks the 400th anniversary of French explorer and cartographer Samuel de Champlain’s travels by sail, oar, and paddle to the lake that now bears his name. In one of many celebratory events, NFCT is partnering with the Burlington International Waterfront Festival to engage citizens in a paddling flotilla on Tuesday, July 14, the exact 400th anniversary of Samuel de Champlain’s 1609 arrival to the lake in a fleet of Algonquin birch bark canoes.

Birch bark canoeists from throughout the Northeast will gather for an afternoon-long paddle from Shelburne Bay to Burlington. The paddling public — canoeists, kayakers, and row boaters of all kinds — are invited to partake in the journey.

To participate or for more info, see NFCT’s website or email burlington400@ci.burlington.vt.us. This event will coincide with an exhibit of birch bark canoes at the ECHO Lake Aquarium and Science Center; see www.echovermont.org for info on the exhibit.

Old Town Canoe Teams with NFCT for Raffle

Old Town Canoes & Kayaks donated a boat for our raffle at the Northeast Paddlesport & Outdoor Expo in Saratoga Spring, New York on March 6-8th. David Cook of Castleton, New York went home with a new Old Town Cayuga Kayak, and NFCT went home with $1,100 in donations to support our work!

NFCT Partnership Publications

This spring, NFCT published two paddler brochures in partnership with Kokatat, the American Canoe Association, and the U.S. Coast Guard: “Wear It! Life Jackets Matter” and “Cold Water Survival.” Both will be distributed through a variety of channels with the goal of promoting smart practices for canoeists and kayakers. You can download the brochures from www.NorthernForestCanoeTrail.org, or send a self-addressed stamped envelope to NFCT.

Maine Welcome Center NFCT Display

The Maine Tourism Association, Maine’s Lakes and Mountains Tourism Council, L.L. Bean, and Hancock Lumber have contributed in part to a great new project — an NFCT kiosk, featuring an actual canoe, being erected in Fryeburg, Maine on May 15th. Check it out the next time you’re in southern Maine.
